The Protective Parenting program offers group and individual counseling for all parents. The program is designed to provide education, support, and skill building. This agency provides an environment that is confidential, while promoting respect and dignity.

The Protective Parenting program is for parents who have suffered the destructive impact of sexual or physical abuse on their families. Abuse in the family can result in devastating consequences on a child's behavior, the family's functioning, or the parents' sense of safety or effectiveness. Often, the parent experiences guilt, shame, confusion, or ambivalence when facing abuse, an abusive partner, or an abusive child in the family. This program offers:

- Education about abuse and offenders;
- Skills to make improved decisions about parenting, discipline, and love;
- A safe and supportive environment to address the confusion, pain, and loss accompanying abuse;
- An understanding about the impact of abuse on children and their behaviors;
- Help in setting good, protective healthy boundaries for the self and the family.

We do not and will not offer family therapy to reunite untreated perpetrators with their victims.

Call now to make an appointment to develop a more empowering, safe, and supportive environment within your home and family.
